Dr. William Brown

Assistant Professor

Dr. William A. Brown is currently an Assistant Professor and former Director of the Master of Arts in Teaching Program and Coordinator of Secondary Education at Jackson State University. He was appointed to this position after serving in other faculty positions along with Director of National Youth Sports Program. Prior to his experiences at Jackson State University, he was an Associate Professor at Wiley College, Marshall, Texas, where he served as Division Chair of Education. He was also the Director of Student Teaching at Texas College in Tyler, Texas.

In 2007 Dr. Brown represented Jackson State University and wrote an award winning grant proposal with other faculty from the University of Louisiana at Monroe. The $ 5.35 million award allowed for creation of TEACH Delta Region, a five year program designed to support first year teachers in critical areas located in the Mississippi Delta and Jackson areas. He is the Principle Investigator for Jackson State.

Dr.. Brown delivered his first sermon on August 22, 2008, at Pearl Street African Methodist Episcopal Church. He served on the Senior Usher Board for many years. Dr. Brown and his wife Shirley are blessed with a nineteen year old son, William Brisby..