

Clifton Hulitt is an undergraduate student in the Department of Civil and Environmental Engineering, Jackson State University. He interned with IMTrans during the summer of 2007.

Clifton is in the final stages of completing his project “Construction Monitoring of Fabric Systems to Reduce Reflective Cracking”. For the year 2007/2008, Clifton has been named IMTrans’ student of the year.

Stephanie Wade is an undergraduate student in the Department of Urban and Regional Planning, Jackson State University. During summer 2007, she served as an intern at the U.S. Department of Transportation.

Currently Stephanie is working on her project “Tiger Transit System (T.T.S.)”, a transportation system between Jackson State’s four campuses. Stephanie also won the “Student of the Year” award for 2007/2008.

Clifton Hulitt and Stephanie Wade are eagerly anticipating their 2008 trip to the Transportation Research Board's (TRB) 87th annual meeting. In addition, they each will receive a monetary reward of $1000 and a certificate from USDOT. Travel expenses for the award winning students will also be covered by the institute.
