INTRODUCTION

History of the Department

In the Fall of 1975, the Department of Political Science at Jackson State University initiated a graduate program in Public Policy and Administration to provide practical career oriented training for persons already employed in the many branches of public service. This program initially awarded a Master of Arts degree in Political Science with a concentration in Public Policy and Administration. During the 1976-77 school year, the Board of Trustees of State Institutions of Higher Learning granted approval for the Master of Public Policy and Administration, (MPPA), Degree. In 1978 the program achieved NASPAA accreditation. This new professional degree allowed Jackson State University to fulfill its responsibility as a public institution in meeting the growing demand for competent and professionally trained public administrators at all levels of management in the state of Mississippi. The original proposal to develop the MPPA Program was funded by the Fund for the Improvement of Post-Secondary Education. This modest grant enabled the University to employ a program director, purchase equipment and supplies and provide limited travel funds to attend professional meetings.

The Department of Public Policy & Administration (PPAD) has grown at a phenomenal rate. The student population has increased from twenty-five, (25), at inception, and has stabilized at 150 with a projected growth to 200 students in five years. In the Fall semester of 1992, the program commenced offering a Ph.D. degree with 19 enrolled students. Concomitantly, the faculty has grown from two (2) full-time persons to its current level of eight (8) full-time, and several adjunct faculty. The Public Policy and Administration Program was granted Departmental status in June 1993 making it the first and only Department of Public Policy & Administration in the state. The fact that the PPA Department constitutes one of the larger graduate enrollments in the University reinforces the original conviction that a professional degree program in Public Policy and Administration was and is extremely attractive in the State’s Capital.

Direct and indirect support of the Department has been provided by the Fund for the Improvement of Post-Secondary Education; the former, U. S. Department of Education, City of Jackson; Town of Bolton; Jackson Opportunities Industrialization Center; Jackson Equal Opportunity Commission Area Office; Mississippi AFL-CIO; Office of Black Economic Development, Mississippi Research and Development Center; the Social Security Administration; the U. S. Department of Interior National Park Service; U. S. Office of Personnel Management; Department of Housing and Urban Development; U. S. Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service; Mississippi Legislative Committee on Reapportionment; Department of Transportation; Mississippi State Classification Commission; Hinds County Tax Assessor’s Office, Mississippi State Board of Health; U. S. EPA and Tennessee Valley Authority and many other entities.
The Department of Public Policy and Administration is an autonomous unit located within the College of Public Service. Because the Department is a graduate degree granting unit, it also operates under the auspices of the Graduate Dean and Graduate Council. In addition to its academic units the Department houses the Mississippi Center for Technology Transfer (MCT²).

Educational Philosophy of the Department of Public Policy and Administration

The effort to allocate resources and the administration of the allocation of resources is as old as the history of humankind residing communally. However, the academic disciple of American Public Administration is a comparatively a new discipline, tracing its beginning to the late 1800’s. From that time period to the present, the discipline of Public Administration has been linked, perhaps more than many others, to the ideological foundations of the American intergovernmental system. Thus, a major focus of any Public Administration Program of quality has, and continues to be, the focus on the administration of resources with equity. At Jackson State, we believe that the administration of resources with equity represents the highest example of public service. Indeed, the public servant then becomes the noblest of all professions; practicing the noblest art. The nobility of public service and the under-pinning of the concepts of equity and the allocation of resources in the ethos which drives the philosophy of learning of the Public Policy and Administration Department at Jackson State. It is this philosophy which we seek to engender in the PPAD student. The Department of Public Policy and Administration is the principal unit at Jackson State University which educates persons primarily for careers in the fields of public management and policy analysis for service in public, non-profit, and “quasi” public organizations. Concomitantly, it is also the mission of PPAD to serve as a resource to the Jackson State University community, the Jackson Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area, the State of Mississippi, the Nation, and the developing areas throughout the World.

Educational Goals of the Public and Administration Department

The Department of Public Policy and Administration seeks to prepare students for significant professional and managerial positions in public agencies, governmental departments and administrative entities and not for profit organizations. The curriculum is designed to equip students with the skills of contemporary public management, provide a broad understanding of the role of administration in the decision making process, and value training including a sound foundation in ethics. Thus, the goals of the PPA Department are: (1) to provide a cadre of highly trained individuals who are committed to the notion of public service in a variety of organizational settings; (2) to develop advanced educational opportunities for students of public administration in an urban environment where a multiplicity of governmental operations, interactions and practices can be observed; and, (3) fill the need for public, high level executive management which exists in this state and the primarily for careers in the fields of public management and policy analysis for service in public, non-profit, and “quasi” public organizations. Concomitantly, it is also the mission of the PPA Department to serve as a resource to the Jackson State University community, the Jackson Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area the State of Mississippi, the Nation, and developing areas throughout the World.
Resources

Jackson State University has a faculty which includes outstanding scholars who have received training at some of the most prestigious universities in the nation. Many of the faculty members have national organization affiliation and serve on local, state, and national professional and civic boards; commissions and committees. All of the faculty hold doctorate degrees. Graduate faculty members are engaged in research activities and many are published in a variety of journals.

The PPAD faculty has practitioner and academic experience. In addition, the Department provides several lecture series where in major policy makers and practitioners meet with faculty and students to discuss important issues in the field of public administration. Thus, faculty and students are provided the opportunity to blend theory with practice and to interact with professionals who are operating at the leading edge of thought and on the frontiers of public administration.

The City of Jackson is a major resource for the Ph.D. program. As the political, economic, and social capital of the state, the Jackson SMSA provides ready access to the “Movers and shakers” in the State who can meet with our students. In addition the Department tries to “leverage” the visits of the many policy makers of national and international import who visit the Jackson SMSA. Thus, providing additional human resources which we may be able to “tap” for the students.

Aside from the Jackson State library system, students in the Ph.D. program have access to five other college and university libraries, as well as the Jackson/Hinds Library system, the State Law Library, the Central Mississippi Regional Library and the Mississippi Historical Archives.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS

The Doctor of Philosophy in Public Policy and Administration Degree is one which demands sound conceptual and analytical abilities. A solid educational foundation and substantial academic and professional achievements are among the criteria upon which applications for admissions are evaluated. Specific prerequisites for admission are submission of:

1. A graduate-level degree from an accredited institution with a grade point average of 3.5 or better as evidenced by an official transcript.
2. GRE (verbal and quantitative), MAT or GMAT score.
3. Three letters of recommendation (two of which from academic sources).
4. A career goals essay.
5. Two samples of academic or professional writing.
6. A minimum score of 550 for international students on the TOEFL.
7. A personal and/or telephone interview may be required.
8. Other considerations such as work or life experiences which are directly related to potential successful completion of the program may also be equated into the admission criteria.
Admission to the Ph. D. Program is granted once per annum for the Fall semester. (Please see Graduate Catalog for other avenues for additional admission to the Ph.D. Program.)

THE CURRICULUM

The Ph.D. program has an urban focus and is interdisciplinary in nature. Students are required to master a body of knowledge that centers around the public management of urban problems; urban minorities; urban development (both past and present); and analysis of social systems. The program is designed to prepare persons for careers in executive management, teaching, research, and other positions of public responsibility. Concomitantly, this degree program emphasizes the acquisition of a knowledge base in the discipline of Public Policy and Administration with an emphasis on policy making, planning, analysis, evaluation and program implementation. In addition to the urban concentration, students will select a concentration in program management, policy analysis, or environmental management, planning and policy. This degree is especially appropriate for persons in public, non-profit and “quasi-public” management settings.

A minimum of 48 semester hours above the Master’s degree, plus 12 hours in dissertation credits is required to complete coursework for the Ph.D. in Public Administration. The 48 semester hours are divided as follows:

- 24 hours of public administration core courses
- 12 hours of urban management concentration courses
- 12 hours of elective concentration courses

 Courses offered outside the department which may be taken with prior approval.

 Transfer of Credits

A maximum of nine credit hours may be transferred from another accredited University. Only courses in which the student has received a grade of at least a “B” which have been analyzed by viewing appropriate data for content, and approved by the Department Chair will be accepted.

 Advisement

The faculty of the Public Policy & Administration Department is oriented to the needs of students. Upon enrollment in the doctoral program and in accordance with the student’s academic interests and purported area of concentration, the student will be assigned an academic advisor. The Advisor will not only serve as a mentor to the student but also ensures that the student proceeds along in the program in an orderly fashion. For example, the advisor will advise the student with regard to registration and the careful selection of courses to meet required competencies as well as provide guidance as the student prepares the plan of study, prepares for the qualifying and comprehensive examinations and the selection of a dissertation committee.
Plan of Study

Student enrolled in the Ph.D. program will be required to file a plan of study with the Department and the Graduate School after the student has completed 18 hours of course work and passed the qualifying examination. At the minimum, the plan of study will consist of the following:

1. A listing of all courses completed and proposed to complete chosen from a list of approved course according to program requirements.
2. A list of other activities required in developing competencies, such as field experiences.
3. A schedule for completing the comprehensive examinations and admission of candidacy.
4. A time line for completion of the degree.
5. A current transcript of all graduate credits earned, including transfer credit.

Qualifying Examination

A qualifying examination must be taken by students by the completion of 18 hours of course work. This examination will determine the feasibility of a student continuing pursuit of the doctoral degree in Public Policy and Administration. Students who do not pass the qualifying examination will be asked to exit the program. (See procedures for qualifying examination in appendices)

Comprehensive Examination

A comprehensive examination will be administered by the graduate faculty. The student is expected to use the examination to creatively demonstrate his/her ability to integrate effectively the various fields of study and apply them to his/her own professional area. The Comprehensive examination will be administered upon completion of course work and before the submission of a dissertation proposal.

Dissertation Proposal Defense (See appendices)

Dissertation and Defense

To be awarded the Doctor of Philosophy in Public Administration degree, the candidate will be required to present and have approved a dissertation based on a pertinent research problem generally in his/her area of specialization, and pass an oral examination in defense of the research. The student's plan for independent research will be developed with the assistance and active participation of the student's dissertation committee. The dissertation must demonstrate the student's competency in scholarly applied research.

While the oral defense is principally designed to defend the written dissertation, it may cover other aspects of the student's program of study. The oral examination will be designed to ascertain the student's general knowledge and understanding of the subject area, mastery of scholarly analysis and ability to organize and present arguments supporting materials and conclusions. The Doctor of Philosophy in Public Administration degree will be awarded only after a successful completion of the oral examination and submission of the approved dissertation to the Graduate School. (For a detailed discussion of dissertation policies, please see appendices).

Continuous Enrollment

According to Graduate School regulations all doctoral student must maintain continuous enrollment during their tenure in the program. Students may register for one hour of credit to comply with this requirement with the Department Chair’s approval. Students who do not maintain continuous enrollment must reapply for admission.

Maintenance of GPA

All students in the doctoral program must maintain a minimum of 3.00 GPA and may not receive more that two grades of “C” to remain enrolled in the program.

Residency Status

All students must complete one year of residency status. Residency status is defined as enrolling as a full-time student for one academic year. This means that students must enroll for a full-time student course load during the first year of matriculation.

Leave of Absence

Students may request a leave of absence by submitting a request which includes a rationale to the Chair of the Department. If granted, the leave shall be for no more than two years; however policies and procedures related to time limits as directed by the graduate school determine the length of time if any a leave of absence may be granted.

Time Limits

The length of time that a student may matriculate to complete the doctoral degree in Public Administration is determined by the policies as adopted by the Graduate School. (Please see Graduate Catalog)

2. Submission of the Plan of Study

In subsequent semesters, the typical student will complete the Urban Core and Elective Concentration. At the end of all course work the Comprehensive examination is completed. Upon successful passage of the Comprehensive examination, the Dissertation is initiated. After the Dissertation is written and successfully completed, the student graduates. (Students must execute forms as required by the University.)

Deficiencies

Students who matriculate in the Ph.D. program must successfully demonstrate a knowledge base of the American intergovernmental system, research methodology, computer applications, fiscal resources, and budgeting administration. Persons entering the program from academic disciplines wherein these subjects were not a focus will be administered pretests to determine if they need compensatory course work. Compensatory course work will not be counted toward the major program course of study.

Competencies

Listed below are the competencies expected of graduates of the Ph.D. program. The competencies are:

1. Competency in research methods, statistical techniques, and computer application.
2. Competency to conduct an independent investigation of a policy or administrative problem.
3. Mastery of interdisciplinary knowledge in a) urban problems and or b) policy analysis and c) program management or d) environmental planning management and policy.
4. Mastery of knowledge and literature in executive leadership and management in a myriad of public and non-profit management settings.
5. Mastery of knowledge focused on ethical decision making and public service values.
Graduation Requirements

1. Completion of 48 hours of course work
2. Passage of qualifying examination
3. Passage of comprehensive examination
5. Completion and defense of Dissertation

PUBLIC POLICY AND ADMINISTRATION DEPARTMENT
QUALIFYING EXAM POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

Purpose: Diagnostic device to provide faculty with information regarding performance and student advisement.

Content: The examination will cover a minimum of 12 hours of course work in the following courses: Scope of PA, Research I, Public Policy and Theories. Also a compendium of papers in courses should be submitted.

Timing: All students must register for the qualifying exam during the semester in which they expect to earn their 12th Ph.D. hour following formal admission into the program. No student will be allowed to earn more than 18 hours prior to taking the qualifying examination. Student may only register for one hour after the completion of 18 hours until passage of the qualifying exam. (Any exceptions must be granted prior to by the Department.)

Registration: Students must register for the qualifying exam during or before the eighth week of the semester in which they are taking the exam. They must submit a portfolio of their course work at least two weeks prior to the examination date.

Structure: The examination will consist of two components:

1. Each student examines is required to provide to the examining committee a portfolio or compendium including all written work submitted for the courses specified above.
2. Each student will be orally examined by the examining committee for a period not to exceed two hours.

Portfolio: The portfolio is to be bound in a loose leaf notebook and consist of original copies (with professors' comments) of all papers/cases/materials/exams/ quizzes returned to the student by the course professor. Materials will be organized and indexed by course in the order they were taken. The student will clearly indicate the following information on the outside spine and front cover of the portfolio: name, SSN, and month of exam (e.g. July, 1996). The portfolio will remain the property of the Department.
Examining Committee: The Examining Committee will consist of all attending faculty.

Timing: This oral examination will be scheduled and date issued by the Department. Student will be assigned dates and times alphabetically. These examinations will generally be given in the Spring and Summer Semesters.

Scheduling: Students must take the examination by the completion the 18 semester core hours. No student will be allowed to register for regular coursework after the completion of 18 hours without taking the qualifying examination.

Advisement Outcomes: At the determination of the examining committee, one of the following recommendations will be made:

1) Continue as is;
2) Require additional work/course work
3) Out placement.

Notification: A student examinee will be mailed his/her results. The Department may also determine that a student needs to be reviewed again the second year after taking the qualifying examination.

Ph.D. Comprehensive Examination Policy and Procedures

Statement of Purpose

The Ph.D. Comprehensive Examination is given prior to beginning the dissertation. The intent of the exam is to measure each student's knowledge of the foundations of public policy and administration. Students are expected to demonstrate critical thinking skills by analyzing, synthesizing, evaluating and integrating information in the discipline. Further, the comprehensive exams:

1. assess the student's readiness to matriculate to the next level of Ph.D. program.
2. are culminating activities for the completion of regular required course work. The comprehensive exams are one of several important mechanisms utilized to assure the knowledge base, concepts and skills have been adequately mastered in the public policy and administration program before beginning the dissertation.
3. provide relevant program feedback to the Department for curricula revisions, policy updates, etc.
Preparing for the Exam

Each student works in concert with the faculty to prepare for the exam. The specific type of preparation is at the discretion of each faculty member. At a minimum, faculty will assist the student in identifying minimum competencies. Students will be given the names of faculty who are to prepare questions in each subject area by the Department Chair. Refer to Ph.D. Curriculum in The Policies and Procedures Manual for the Ph.D. for composition of courses and areas of concentration.

Scheduling

The comprehensive exam is administered twice each academic year--fall and spring semesters only. Exam dates are announced at least three months in advance.

Qualifying for the Exam

Only those students who have completed all course work and are in good standing with the Graduate School are permitted to sit for the comprehensive exam.

Registering for the Exam

It is the responsibility of each student planning to take the comprehensive exam to complete and file registration materials at the appropriate time. Each student must complete the following:

1. PPAD Comprehensive Exam Clearance Form
2. The appropriate Graduate School form(s). The PPAD Comprehensive Exam Clearance Form must be submitted to the Chair at least 30 days prior to the date of the written exam.

Administration of Tests

The Departmental Chair and her/his appointee will serve as Exam Administrator. The Proctor is responsible for details of exam compilation and execution. Further, the administrator makes reasonable efforts to insure that questions are prepared by faculty committees of the various cores and areas of concentration. Additionally, the administrator makes room arrangements. He/she distributes tests to faculty for grading and collect grades. The Department Chair schedules proctors for the examination.

EXAM STRUCTURE

1. What is permitted in the test site?

Examinees will not be allowed to take any materials into the testing session, including books, papers, electronic devices such as iPads and smart phones. A dictionary, thesaurus, pencils and paper will be provided by the test administrator. Once testing has commenced, examinees are expected to remain in the designated testing site for the duration of the test with the exception of designated breaks/Lunch. Persons other than the test administrator and PPAD authorized persons are not permitted in or near the testing area.

Students will follow the format of the comprehensive examination which is in place at the time they take the examination. The examination format will be given to the student at least one month before the comprehensive.

2. Number of Days for Exam

   The comprehensive examination will be given over a period of 4 days, Monday-Tuesday and Thursday-Friday. All exams will begin at 8 a.m., a lunch break will be provided from 12 p.m. through 1 p.m. Testing will resume from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. No additional time will be provided for late arrival to the test. Late arrivals will have to take the exam at the next administration. The testing schedule for specific exams will be given as indicated below:

   - Day 1 – Core I
   - Day 2 – Core II
   - Day 3 – Urban
   - Day 4 – Concentration

3. Registering a complaint about testing conditions

   All complaints regarding testing conditions such as room temperature and other discomforts should be immediately registered to test proctor. Students should dress in layers to accommodate individual preferences for room temperature.

4. Recording your answers

   All examinations will be taken on computer in the computer lab. Students will be responsible for familiarizing themselves with the software package that they will use for keying their response to exam questions.

5. Nonstandard test administrations for examinees that have disabilities

   The Department is in compliance with the University's policies on providing assistance to persons with disabilities. Students who have disabilities must comply with University regulations and policies relative to documentation, and accommodation will be made for accessibility. Students must provide the documents one semester prior to taking the examination.
6. Test schedule for each day:

7. Anonymity

The comprehensive exam will be proctored. All students will be assigned to a designated area. Each student receives a numeric code. This code is used as identification throughout the examination. No student shall place his/her name on any material submitted for grading. All grades are registered by code. Once all grades are registered with the Chair, student names are substituted for codes.

8. Exam Questions

Each test is comprised of one to six questions. Questions may be mandatory (no choice) or optional (e.g. answer two of the following three questions).

9. Exam Readers/Evaluators

Each test is graded and recorded independently of the other tests. Each test is graded and reported to the Administrator or his/her designee independently by the various core and areas of concentration committee chairs. The chair of the core area is informed of the results and it may be discussed to arrive at a consensus. In cases of divergent votes, majority rules. Examiners will also complete and sign a consensus grading form which reflects the final grade. (Please note comment sheets do not represent the final grade) Students will be provided with written comments relative to their performances as adjudged by individual graders.

10. Comprehensive Grade

Students receive four grades, one for each day. Grades are reported as:

A. Pass
B. Oral (Indeterminate)
C. Fail

Oral does not constitute a pass. The Oral is given when ambiguity exists and clarity is needed. Following the oral exam, a determination will be made regarding a grade of either a pass or a fail.
11. Notification of Exam Results

A student taking the Ph.D. comprehensive written examination will be notified of his/her performance in writing by mail, postmarked no later than 30 days after the date that the last test was taken. Notification will be made by the Departmental chairperson.

If an oral is mandated, the oral exam will be scheduled. Notification of performance on the oral exam is verbal and written and made immediately after the oral exam.

12. Exam Repeat Policy

The number of times a person will be allowed to re-take the comprehensive exam shall be consistent with the University's guideline for graduate programs.

Dissertation

Committee Composition--Chairing and/or serving as a committee member on The Dissertation Committee

Upon completion of course work and passing the comprehensive examination, students will select a dissertation Chair, and with the advice of Chair, will select a dissertation committee.

To be awarded the Doctor of Philosophy in Public Administration degree, the candidate will be required to present and have approved a dissertation based on a pertinent research problem generally in his/her area of specialization, and pass an oral examination in defense of the research. The student's plan for independent research will be developed with the assistance and active participation of the student's dissertation committee. The dissertation must demonstrate the student's competency in scholarly applied research.

1. Dissertation Committee Composition

a) The dissertation committee will consist of five members. The committee will consist of a minimum of three full-time PPAD faculty and a minimum of one member outside of the Department who is not a member of the PPAD full-time faculty.

b) The dissertation student selects the committee chair and four members in consultation with his/her program advisor. However, the decision to select a dissertation chair is ultimately the decision of the student.

c) The committee Chair must be a PPAD regular, full-time faculty member.

d) The dissertation committee must have at least one person whose background or experience is related to the subject area in which student is writing.

e) In the event a committee member leaves the Department or University, the committee member may continue to serve on the committee, but not as committee Chair. This person is then considered as a non-faculty member of the committee.
2. Faculty Dissertation Student Load
   a) A faculty member can chair a maximum of three dissertations at the same time unless he or she is granted written permission from the chair.
   b) A faculty member chairing three dissertation committees can only serve on three additional dissertation committees as a committee person during the same period.
   c) A faculty member not chairing a dissertation committee may serve on eight dissertation committees.

3. Changing the Composition of a Committee
   a) Dissertation student requesting change in his/her committee composition Students requesting a change in composition of his/her committee must provide a written rationale for the request to the committee chair and PPA Departmental Chair.
   b) Dissertation committee member requesting to leave a student's dissertation committee
      Dissertation committee members requesting to leave a student's dissertation committee must provide a rationale for the request to the committee Chair and PPAD Departmental Chair. If the dissertation committee Chair wishes to give up the chairpersonship, a rationale should be given to the Department Chair. All requests must be submitted in writing.

4. Timelines for Writing the Dissertation
   The timelines for submitting the final copy of the dissertation are in accordance with the dates established by the Graduate School.

5. Dissertation Proposal Defense
   All ABD (All But Dissertation) students will be required to present his/her dissertation proposal orally before the full committee for the purpose of establishing approval to proceed with writing the dissertation as of the Fall 1998 semester. Upon committee approval of the proposal, procedures or guidelines for rewrites, a checklist, and reasonably agreed upon turn around time on reading proposal and/or chapters should be established by the dissertation committees in concert with the dissertation chair, committee and student.

   Prior to oral presentation, the written proposal should be submitted to the committee at least two weeks before the oral presentation. It is the expectation that appropriate preliminaries to the study be conducted prior to presentation of proposal.

   At the completion of the proposal defense, a proposal acceptance form will be executed and signed by the appropriate parties.

   NOTE: Additional rules as designated by the Graduate School may apply in terms of scheduling of dissertation proposal defenses.
6. Dissertation Defense

The dissertation student in consultation with the dissertation chair sets a date for the dissertation defense. The date is set once the student has made completion of all editing and revisions noted by the committee chair and committee. A final draft of the paper is submitted to committee members at least two weeks prior to the defense. The student is responsible for completing and submitting necessary paper work and requirements to the Department, Graduate School, and Office of Records Management for official clearance. All dissertation defenses must occur three weeks prior to the date established by the Graduate School for final submission of the dissertation. Before the oral defense is conducted a Dissertation Readiness Form must be submitted to the Department Chair.

While the oral defense is principally designed to defend the written dissertation, it may cover other aspects of the student's program of study. The oral examination will be designed to ascertain the student's general knowledge and understanding of the subject area, mastery of scholarly analysis and ability to organize and present arguments supporting materials and conclusions. The Doctor of Philosophy in Public Administration degree will be awarded only after a successful completion of the oral examination and submission of the approved dissertation to the Graduate School.

NOTE: Additional rules as designated by the Graduate School may apply in terms of scheduling of the final dissertation defense.
