Ahfiya Howard Bio Sketch

Ahfiya Howard currently serves as Interim B.S.W. Department Chair in the School of Social Work at Jackson State University. She previously served as an adjunct at Hinds Community College where she taught general psychology and sociology courses in the Department of Social Science. Ahfiya has contributed numerous years in social services as a volunteer, student and social worker. She continues to contribute to the social work profession by attending workshops, seminars and by bringing awareness to the general public regarding mental health issues. Additionally, Ms. Howard advocates improving food access among low-income children by promoting policies such as the Community Eligibility Provision through social media, blog publications, community networking and proposal submissions.
