MISSISSIPPI CHILD WELFARE INSTITUTE AND CONFERENCE HISTORY

The Mississippi Child Welfare Institute was established at Jackson State University in 2003 as a part of the School of Social Work. The impetus to begin the Institute emanated from a grant awarded by the Children’s Bureau, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services during the 2000 to 2004 period. The proposal was developed by Gwendolyn Spencer Prater, PhD, MSW, who was then Dean of the School of Social Work. The Institute and conference began prior to the organization of the academic colleges at Jackson State University.

The proposal submitted to the Children’s Bureau resulted in a funded grant which permitted 26 committee-selected and dedicated students to participate in the education project. All of the social work students were provided tuition, stipends, and special training and educational opportunities both in-state and across the country at national conferences with the goal of preparing them for careers in child welfare. The students graduated and many attained social work positions in the field of child welfare. Mrs. Wanda Gilliam, MSW, Deputy Director of Programs, Mississippi Department of Human Services, was the liaison with the School of Social Work during the grant period and actively and successfully facilitated productive experiential educational opportunities for students with the Division of Family and Children’s Services.

During the 2002-2003 academic year, Jackson State University’s School of Social Work, in partnership with other state institutions of higher learning, and the Mississippi State Department of Human Services, under the capable leadership of Mrs. Thelma Brittain, MSW, initiated the Title IV-E Program in Child Welfare. The program was readily supported by the Mississippi Legislature, with strong leadership from the late Representative Charlie Capp, Chair of the House Appropriations Committee. Jackson State University’s administration also provided strong support for the Institute and the conference. The School of Social Work programmatic and administrative leadership team included Drs. Prater and Ruth M. Williams as the Principal Investigator and Co-Principal Investigator, respectively, and Ms. Velma Hankins, MSW, as the Program Administrator.

The program continued for approximately three and one-half years, with Jackson State University serving as the lead institution for the majority of that period, with the final program year being rotated to one of the other state institutions of higher education. Numerous students at the baccalaureate and master’s levels were educated and provided training for child welfare practice with vulnerable populations. In addition, during that three-year period, training was also developed and provided for foster and adoptive parents and public child welfare staff. Since that time, there has not been a consortium of state schools and programs of social work jointly engaged in Title IV-E academic programming with the Mississippi Department of Human Services.
The Mississippi Child Welfare Institute at Jackson State University, however, continues to offer its annual conference for professional development of child welfare practitioners, supervisors, administrators, faculty, and students in Mississippi, other states in the Southeastern Region, and indeed across the United States of America. The Institute partners with public and private agencies and organizations as it works to improve services to children and families including but not limited to: the Mississippi State Departments of Human Services, Health, and Mental Health, the Children’s Defense Fund (Southern Regional Office), Mississippi Children’s Home Services and CARES Center, Catholic Charities, and the Casey Family Programs and Marguerite Casey Foundations.

PLENARY SPEAKERS

Wanda F. Reives is a Clinical Associate Professor and Collaborative Director for the Child Welfare Education Collaborative at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill School of Social Work. Her professional interests include public child welfare, family based service and public human service management/leadership.

Anna McPhatter is the Dean of the School of Social Work at Morgan State University in Baltimore, MD. Her research areas include Child Welfare; Children, Youth, & Families (with a special focus on African American Families); Cultural Competence; Maternal and Child Health; and Adolescent Health. She has authored numerous publications and has received national recognition for her research in Child Welfare.

Kristi Plotner is the Deputy Commissioner of Administration, Mississippi Department of Child Protective Services. Ms. Plotner has committed her career to analyzing existing program issues and searching for solutions. Her experience in systems change efforts have changed operations and offered new programs for vulnerable people and their families.
CLOSING LUNCHEON SPEAKER

Mildred Muhammad is a domestic violence survivor with a story to tell the world. Many know her first and foremost by her former husband, John Allen Muhammad – the convicted DC sniper who terrorized the Washington DC metro region in late 2002. However, many are not aware that the reasons for the horrific attacks on innocent women, children and men in the DC Metro area, originated from John Allen Muhammad’s stalking and the control tactics he used on Mildred and their children. Nearly 15 years later, Ms. Muhammad continues to share her experiences nationwide.

SPECIAL YOUTH EMPOWERMENT SESSION SPEAKERS

Marcello Gordon is a 2016 graduate of the Master’s of Social Work Program at Jackson State University. Mr. Gordon channeled his passion for children and youth by establishing a non-profit organization named BECOME LLC. The mission of BECOME is to motivate, inspire and transform. He believes that we, like the caterpillar are to “BECOME” what we are born to be; so why should we settle for crawling, when we were born to fly!

Kristin V. Richards, Ph.D., MSW is an Associate Professor in the School of Social Work at Jackson State University and serves as the Associate Director of the Financial Therapy Center, LLC. Dr. Richards and her Financial Therapy Center colleagues were Hot Topic presenters at the 2015 CSWE Annual Program Meeting in Denver, Colorado. Additionally, she teaches Personal Financial Planning. She is co-authoring her fourth book, Clinical Applications of Financial Therapy, in conjunction with Springer Publishing.

Session X
Are there Differences in Resilience Among Youth Aging-Out of Foster Care? A Latent Class and Latent Transition Analysis

Room: Winston I
Aging-out of care or emancipation in this study refers to when a youth reaches the age of majority, and he/she is no longer under the control of their parents, legal guardians, or the state. Resiliency Theory provides the conceptual framework for examining and comprehending why some youth aging-out foster care fair better than others despite of all their difficulties (i.e., risk factors).

Session XI
Influence of Grandfathers on the Development and Educational Attainment of Grandchildren

Room: Winston II
This manuscript reports the findings of a study entitled African American Grandfathers: A Pilot Project Investigating their Role and in Stabilizing Family and Communities. Delta Sigma Theta Sorority Incorporated, through the Distinguished Endowed Chair Grant Award, funded the two-year study. The manuscript and presentation provides an overview of the themes that emerged from interviews with 28 grandfathers. The most prevalent themes focused on family and community, obtaining an education, and passing on their values to their grandchildren. The manuscript provides insight into their attempts to influence the healthy growth, development and aspirations of these children.
