America Reads Mississippi at Jackson State University

The America Reads Mississippi Program at Jackson State University seeks students ages 19 or older to join its school-based AmeriCorps program. AmeriCorps members spend 12 months working in metro area schools and centers as tutors, mentors, teacher assistants and after-school program leaders. In addition to impacting the lives of children, members receive a living stipend, health insurance, childcare (eligible applicants) and an educational award.

Interested persons may attend one of the information sessions at the Sally McDonnell Barksdale Building on JSU's Main Campus. For more information, contact the JSU/ARM Office at (601) 979-1474.

Information sessions will be held on the following dates:
