By signing below, the portfolio advisor and committee members indicate that the article meets the following criteria for a passing portfolio.

Criteria for a passing portfolio

- The written work demonstrates a substantial knowledge of and facility with the underlying principles of and central concepts in the subject area relevant to each paper.
- The paper must show that the student has the ability to establish an original thesis or hypothesis, an original interpretation or analysis, or a substantial and original synthesis.
- The paper appropriately frames the original material in the project within the context of established work or relevant traditions in the discipline, provides documentation appropriate to the discipline, contains few and relatively minor grammatical or typographical flaws, and is clear, well-organized, and stylistically sound.
- The work itself is of very high quality. The paper has been carried out competently, diligently, independently, and in a manner that fulfills the basic standards of the discipline.
