BACHELOR OF SCIENCE IN PROFESSIONAL INTERDISCIPLINARY STUDIES: HUMAN RESOURCE DEVELOPMENT CONCENTRATION

HUMAN RESOURCES DEVELOPMENT CONCENTRATION OVERVIEW

Human Resource Development (HRD) is a dynamic multidisciplinary profession that combines training and development, organization development, and career development efforts for the purpose of improving individual, team and organizational performance. This profession is projected to grow at the rate of 14% by the year 2020, the average rate of other growing professions (Bureau of Labor Statistics, 2012). It is one of the few professions that provide job opportunities across all industries and sectors, locally and globally.

If you enjoy working with people and are excited about how learning at work can improve job performance, then this concentration may be what you need for a fulfilling career. In compliance with the demands of the changing workplace, this concentration provides students with opportunities to develop the following skills and competences:

- Instructional design - Assess organizational learning needs and develop instructional media
- Training delivery - Improve communication and facilitation skills
- Training evaluation - Assess effectiveness of learning programs
- Learning program management - Oversee learning activities in organizations
- Change management - Facilitate and manage organizational change
- Performance improvement - Address skill performance gaps
- Career management - Provide career guidance and development
