Mt. Olive Cemetery, Jackson, Mississippi

AUTHOR

HEATHER WILCOX, M.A.

INTRODUCTION

Mt. Olive Cemetery, established in the early 1800s, is one of the oldest private cemeteries for African Americans in the state of Mississippi. The cemetery was used by the African American community in Jackson from the early 1800's to the late 1900's and remains an important reminder of African American life during that time period. The long history of the use provides examples of the types and styles of burial markers used to memorialize the deceased. Of particular note are the statues marking the graves of Ida Revels Redmond and James (Jim) Hill. As the only statues in the cemetery, it reflects the important contributions of these individuals.

Ida Revels Redmond was the daughter of Hiram Revels, the first African American to serve in the U.S. Congress to represent Mississippi in 1870 and 1871. She was the wife of local lawyer, physician, and businessman Sidney D. Redmond. She helped organize women's self-improvement efforts through civic, education and social services (Morris, 2015). James Hill was a former slave who was elected as Mississippi's Secretary of State from 1874-1878. In 1912, an elementary school was named in his honor and was located on Lynch Street. Later the school transitioned into Jim Hill High School and is currently located on Fortune Street (<https://www.jackson.k12.ms.us/domain/234>, 2017).

Mt. Olive Cemetery suffers from years of deferred maintenance. Many of the markers and mausoleums are deteriorated or missing. However, the boundary lines of the cemetery remain clearly marked. Despite its current state, Mt. Olive is one of the most intact historic properties associated with the growth and development of the African American community and business district surrounding John R. Lynch Street in Jackson, Mississippi.

Mt. Olive represents four distinct eras in history: slavery, reconstruction, Jim Crow, and the Civil Rights Movement. This cemetery depicts a point of beginning for this community and served as a final resting place for prominent African Americans, as well as ordinary citizens. The cemetery remains intact and is a visible landmark for the community. Based on the work of Jackson State University's Center for University-Based Development, the Mt. Olive Cemetery was listed on the National Register of Historic Places in June 2017. The designation denotes the worthiness of preservation.

LITERATURE REVIEW

A. Origins

Information and research gathered about Mt. Olive Cemetery came from death certificates issued by the State of Mississippi; an 1886 Sanborn map; a site survey conducted by Mississippi State University Architecture students; a research paper published by Robert Major Walker in 1973; a 1997 Survey Report conducted by Thomason and Associates Preservation Planners; and a 2004 preliminary evaluation questionnaire completed by Marilyn Johnson Luckett.

During the last decade of the nineteenth century, a private cemetery for African Americans was uncommon. Prior to that time, African Americans were generally buried on plantations, churchyards, or public-owned cemeteries, such as Greenwood Cemetery. Starting a private cemetery for African Americans by the Jackson Cemetery Association was a major departure from the historical tradition of African Americans (Walker, 1974).

According to Mr. Robert Walker, local historian and History Professor at Jackson State University, “There is a possibility that the cemetery was part of an old plantation graveyard because when the campus of Jackson College was moved to its present site in 1903, the first building occupied was an old farmhouse that had been built in 1880. The entire area may have been a large plantation (Walker, 2000).” This historical fact would explain why there are graves that appear before the land purchase. Therefore, it is probable that Mt. Olive was a plantation graveyard before the Jackson Cemetery Association purchased the site. In addition, the street on the west side of Mt. Olive cemetery was originally named Masters Street (Thomason and Associates, 1997).

The purchase of the four-acre cemetery was negotiated in two separate transactions. The first was closed on April 3, 1891, when Thomas Darrington sold approximately two acres of land to the Jackson Cemetery Association for the sum of $400.00 (Walker, 2000). The second transaction, involving approximately two additional acres of land, was negotiated between Thomas and Lawrence Darrington and the Jackson Cemetery Association on February 25, 1892, for the sum of $500.00 (Walker, 2000).

The cemetery contains an array of traditional burial elements, which range from simple to more decorative markers, as well as vaults, slabs, and statuary. Currently there are thirty-four mausoleums. According to Mr. Robert Walker, “Preliminary investigations prove that at least twenty-one ex-slaves were interred at Mt. Olive.” Evidence of the recorded burials of freed people buried in the cemetery include the tombstones of Susana Brown (December 25, 1812- September 7, 1904) and Primus Eubank (1814-April 10, 1892), both born before Mississippi acquired statehood in 1817 (Walker, 1974).

In 1999, a site survey was completed by Mississippi State University students and was filed in the MS Department of Archives and History records. The site plan identifies 268 burial sites and all the information legible on the headstones. Now, almost twenty years later, some of the burial sites that were identified in 1999 are unidentifiable. The loss of markers are due to several reasons: weather and soil erosion, vandalism that destroyed headstones, and lack of maintenance and preservation. The only indication of who authored this site survey was listed as “1999 MS State University Architecture Students,” and no other references were listed for this study.

B. Current Conditions

Mt. Olive Cemetery is a 4-acre rectangular site located near Jackson State University in Jackson, Hinds County, Mississippi. It is located in the 900 block of John R. Lynch Street and contains an array of traditional burial elements, which range from simple to decorative markers, as well as, vaults, slabs, and statuary. Although no formal landscape design is apparent, trees are planted across the site. A brick and iron fence stretches along the north side of the cemetery. A paved walkway on a north-south axis extends into the cemetery from a gate on the north side. The graves were developed in somewhat of an orderly fashion with the graves placed in rows and columns. The graves are aligned in an east-west direction with the feet of the interred to the east. Female spouses are buried to the left of the husband (Lockett, 2005).

John R. Lynch Street served as a major commercial strip during segregation and later, the center of black resistance in the mid-1960s (Moody, 1968). This street grew into an important hub of social, commercial, and political importance to the black community. Over time the commercial district declined due in part to closing off a portion of John R. Lynch Street in the 1970s (Spofford, 1988). However, it is memorialized by the Chambliss Building at 932 John R. Lynch Street and the building is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The shoe repair business was operated by Jackson business and social leader Jesse Chambliss, who is buried in Mt. Olive Cemetery.

Since 2005, Mt. Olive Cemetery has been adjacent to Jackson State University (JSU), the only urban and largest historically black university in Mississippi. JSU has not always been adjacent to Mt. Olive. However, over the years the University has expanded and in 2005 the College of Business was built directly west of the cemetery (Rhodes, 1979).

Other historically significant institutions nearby include the M. W. Stringer Grand Lodge and National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) state office at 1072 John R. Lynch Street. This site was also the office for civil rights leader Medgar Evers' from 1955 until his death in 1963 (Evers-Williams, 1999). The Stringer Lodge was used for many Civil Rights era meetings, including many of the MS Freedom Democratic Party strategizing meetings with Fannie Lou Hamer, Ella Baker, and Robert Moses (Branch, 1998).

The office of the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO) was directly east of the cemetery at 1017 Lynch Street and was the nerve center for the Mississippi Civil Rights movement. COFO united efforts of the NAACP, Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), and Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) (Branch, 1998) and was instrumental in organizing Freedom Summer in 1964. The COFO office was a central location in Anne Moody's memoir, "Coming of Age in Mississippi," published in 1968. In 2010, the COFO building was restored by JSU's Center for University-Based Development and now operates as the Fannie Lou Hamer Institute at COFO.

The neighborhood around the cemetery was traditionally a mix of commercial, residential and institutional resources that traditionally served Jackson's African American residents. Mt. Olive Cemetery is the final resting place for some of its most prominent citizens that include the first African American doctors, lawyers, dentists, legislators, midwives, and teachers of Jackson, Mississippi.

RESEARCH METHODS (SEE DEATH RECORD AND MAP)

In 1999, a site survey was complete by Mississippi State University students. The site plan identifies 268 burial sites and all the information on the headstones. A database was created by compiling this site survey with death certificates that were available through the Mississippi Department of Archives and History.

The second primary resource was obtained by pulling death certificates issued by the State of Mississippi. At the bottom of each death certificate, it indicates what cemetery the person was buried in. However, death records in the Department of Archives and History are only sorted by county. Thus every death certificate in Hinds County had to be pulled to determine burial sites. Thousands of death records were pulled and reviewed to determine individuals buried in Mt. Olive Cemetery.

From pulling death certificates, a total of 1,461 individuals have been identified as being buried in Mt. Olive Cemetery. Death certificates are only available to the public from 1909 to 1943. Prior to 1909, death records were not issued by the State of Mississippi. Any records after 1943 have to be obtained through Mississippi Department of Vital Statistics and these records are not available for the general public. Individuals listed in the database after 1943, are only known because their headstone is visible in the cemetery.

The death certificates issued by the State of Mississippi provided empirical evidence of the African Americans culture in Jackson, MS. When known to the informant giving information to the registrar, doctor or undertaker, note the gender of the individual, race/color designation, place and date of birth and/or age, occupation, address, cause of death; and parents' names and places of birth. This information is vital to telling the authentic story of the African American experience in Mississippi.

RESEARCH FINDINGS

Listed below are 1,461 records of individuals who were determined to be buried in Mt. Olive Cemetery. The majority of these records represent death certificates from 1909-1943.

The entire database, which include detailed information about each person, can be viewed at www.jsums.edu/cubd and www.westjxn.com under the Mt. Olive Cemetery links. As more information becomes available, the online database will be updated.

The raw data from the death certificates were analyzed and below are the results of the research. Mt. Olive has 1,461 known burial sites.

268 of the 1,461 sites were identifiable grave sites and their location is detailed on the map.

Of the 268 identifiable grave sites, 81 sites are of unidentified individuals.

BIRTHDATES

Of the 1,461 burials in Mt. Olive Cemetery, only 420 individuals or 28% have a known birth date. The remaining 72% of individuals buried in the cemetery do not have an exact day of birth.

FIRST AND LAST BURIALS

The first burial documented is of a child with a date of birth of 6/19/1807 and date of death as 6/25/1807. No other information is available of this individual, however this grave site is identified on the map (number 244).

The last known burial was of Mrs. Barbara Chris Curry Turner with a date of death of 4/18/1997.

INFANTS & CHILDREN

241 of the burials are of children less than a year old or 16.4%.

95 of the burials are of children 1 to 5 years old or 6.5%.

Therefore, 22.9% of all the burials are of children 5 and under.

There are various causes of death for infants and children including cholera, measles, teething, and spotted fever. Many were stillbirths and/or no doctor was present when delivered.

COLOR CLASSIFICATIONS

Based on the death certificates, everyone buried in Mt. Olive is of African American heritage. However there were four classifications that were found on the death certificates that described African Americans during slavery, reconstruction and Jim Crow. Those color classifications were yellow, black, colored, Negro and two people were classified as light.

1,021/1,461 or 69.8% of the burials have a color classification.

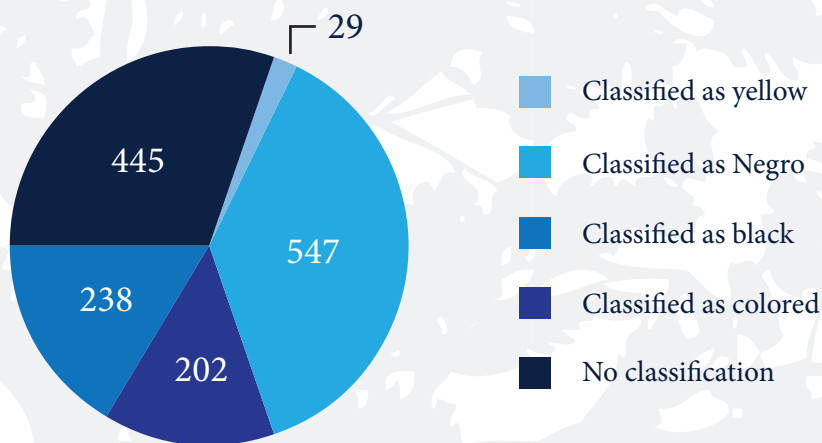

23.3% (238) were classified as black

19.7% (202) were classified as colored

53.5% (547) were classified as Negro.

2.8% (29) were classified as yellow. The classification of yellow was only used in the years 1911-1912. Yellow refers to an individual who is a descendant of mixed heritage.

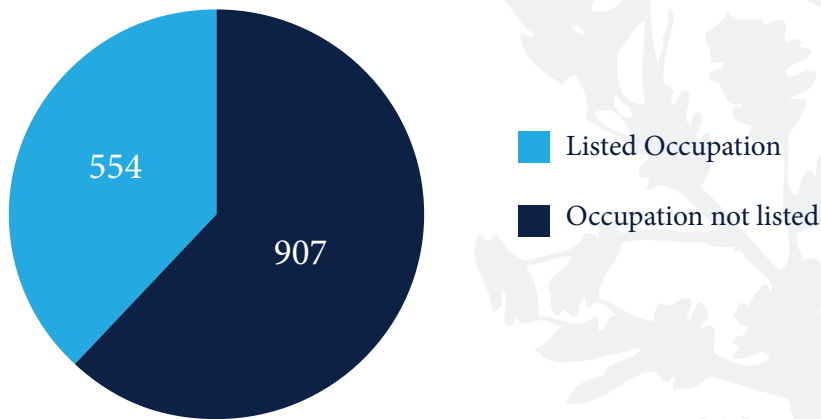

Black, Negro, and colored are interchangeably used depending on who is filling out the death certificate.

OCCUPATION

554 had a listed occupation (38%). 907 did not have a listed occupation. Approximately 77% of all African American women were listed as domestic laborers. Other occupations included, fieldhands, laundress, cook, seamstress, school teacher, midwife, and beauty consultant.

The majority of African American men were common laborers, 13%. Other occupations included blacksmith, brick mason, chauffeur, cotton spotter, drayman (driver of a wagon pulled by horses), farmer, machinist, minister, physician, plaster, plumber, porter (carries objects for others), railroad laborer, waiter, and umbrella repairer.

ADDRESS

737/1,461 (50%) certificates listed addresses. The Washington Addition neighborhood, directly south of the cemetery, is referenced in 1915 in one of the death certificates.

CAUSES OF DEATH

779/983 (79%) had a cause of death listed. Common reasons include cerebral hemorrhage, chronic nephritis, consumption, dropsy, heart trouble, influenza, pneumonia, malaria, measles, no doctor, pellagra, pulmonary tuberculosis, stillborn, teething, typhoid fever, and whooping cough. The first time the term “diabetes” was described as a cause of death was in 1914.

PLACE OF BIRTH

934/1,461 (63.9%) had a place of birth listed. 41.9% (392) were born in Jackson, MS. 11% (542) were born elsewhere. Several other cities, counties and states were listed for individuals.

INSCRIPTIONS/ADDITIONAL COMMENTS

This section of the database includes everything in quotation marks was visible on the headstone. It also includes pertinent information that was listed on the death certificate including individual’s mother and father, informant’s name, and spouses name.

PROMINENT INDIVIDUALS

Every individual buried in this cemetery has historical importance. However, a select few individuals were chosen to highlight. For more information about those buried in the cemetery and their contributions to the community, the entire database is located at www.jsums.edu/cubd or www.westjxn.com under the Mt. ### JIM HILL

James “Jim” Hill was born a slave on the J. Hill Salem Road Plantation about two miles from Holly Springs, Mississippi. In the early 1870’s, Hill joined the Republican Party and his career in Mississippi politics took off. He was elected to the House of Representatives, where he was chosen Sergeant at Arms and Speaker of the House. In 1871, he was given a seat in the Mississippi Legislature. Two years later, he was elected and served as Secretary of State of Mississippi from 1874 to 1878. After his term ended as Secretary of State, he served as Collector of Internal Revenue in Mississippi as well as the registrar for the Land Office in Jackson (Sewell, 1977).

In 1912, an elementary school was named in his honor. The school was located on John R. Lynch Street for the purpose of educating the youth in West Jackson. It was later relocated to a new building located at West Pearl and Dalton Streets (now Blackburn Laboratory Middle School). The current location of Jim Hill High School was erected in 1966 on Fortune Street (<https://www.jackson.k12.ms.us/domain/234>, 2017).

MARY GREEN SCOTT, VIRGINIA FORD & JOHN FORD

Mary Green Scott, a widow, and the family matriarch, had been enslaved in Warren County, MS. In 1891, they built a house in the Farish Street neighborhood on E. Cohea St. The family worked their way from slavery to the middle class. Virginia Ford, daughter of Mary Green became the neighborhood midwife, a teacher at Smith Robertson School, and laundry owner. Virginia Ford’s husband, John Ford owned of a hack delivery service and often drove Virginia to deliver babies in the middle of the night. (<https://www.scottfordhouse.com/>, 1995).

All three individuals are buried in Mt. Olive Cemetery and Virginia Ford’s 1928 death certificate is shown on page 30 as an example of what a typical death certificate looked like and what information was gathered.

IDA REVELS REDMOND

Mrs. Revels Redmond was the daughter of Hiram Revels, the first African American United States senator. She was also the wife of Dr. Sydney Dillion Redmond, a well-known entrepreneur, lawyer, and physician. Mrs. Ida Revels Redmond helped organize the Mary Church Terrell Literary Club, which organized women’s self-improvement through literary and cultural opportunities. This organization focused on social services to help educate youth, hosted voter registration drives, and addressed other inequities that resulted from segregation and discrimination, (Morris, 2015). Mrs. Revels Redmond was also the mother of Sydney Revels Redmond, a NAACP lawyer in one of the first major civil rights cases in the U.S. (Lloyd Gaines v. Missouri) (Walker, 2000).

DR. R. L. JOHNSON (born 12/25/1871 and died 7/20/1937), was one of the leading medical doctors in the history of Jackson, MS (Walker, 2000).

JESSIE R. CHAMBLISS

Jesse R. Chambliss was the fifth of twelve children born in a crude log cabin to Marcus and Susan Claiborne Chambliss on July 6, 1885, near rural Tillman, Mississippi, in Claiborne County. Marcus Chambliss, was an ex-slave who sent his children to school in Port Gibson, Mississippi, and to Alcorn State University in Lorman, Mississippi.

Jesse Chambliss opened a shoe shop on John R. Lynch Street in Jackson in 1905, which was called the Chambliss Shoe Hospital. While living in Jackson, MS, he joined the Pearl Street AME Church. On May 30, 1917, he married Norah Robinson, a regular church attendant and choir member. Their home was at 624 Rose Street, where their six children—five sons and one daughter—were born. In addition to being an ardent churchman, Chambliss was a pioneer Boy Scout leader in Mississippi. He organized the first Boy Scout Troop for African Americans in Mississippi at Pearl Street AME Church in 1932, and he continued to actively promote that troop for forty years.

DISCLAIMER

Death records were handwritten in cursive letters during this time period. Some records are illegible.

CONCLUSION

In June 2017, Mt. Olive Cemetery was listed on the National Register of Historic Places because of its contributions to the African American culture. It was the only property in Hinds County to receive this designation in 2017. The National Register of Historic Places is the official list of the Nation's historic places worthy of preservation. Authorized by the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966, the National Park Service's National Register of Historic Places is part of a national program to coordinate and support public and private efforts to identify, evaluate, and protect America's historic and archeological resources.

Currently Jackson, MS has several properties listed on the National Register of Historic Places and Mt. Olive Cemetery is a reflection of African American history in Jackson. Information gathered from the grave markers provides insight into the way of life of African Americans. The African American community constitutes a significant portion of the City's population. However, there are few African American resources that survived or retained sufficient integrity. The rarity of properties associated with the African American community in Jackson increases the significance of Mt. Olive Cemetery.

The research provides empirical evidence of African American culture in Jackson, Mississippi. Mt. Olive Cemetery provides insight into the life of African Americans in Mississippi during slavery through the Civil Rights Era. The people buried in the cemetery have triumphant stories that should be celebrated and honored and is why Mt. Olive Cemetery should continue to be preserved and maintained for generations to come.

FURTHER RESEARCH

Research needs to be done to try and locate where individuals are in Mt. Olive Cemetery. Further preservation work is needed to restore the mausoleums and headstones in Mt. Olive Cemetery. Willow Park Cemetery and Lincoln Cemetery are other African American cemeteries in Jackson, MS that need similar research and preservation efforts. The research conducted on Mt. Olive Cemetery could and should be replicated for other cemeteries.
