Research Data and Analytics Manager 2011 - 2014
Center for Community Safety (CCS)

Winston-Salem State University, Winston-Salem, North Carolina

Responsible for the leadership, development, day-to-day management, and accountability of the CCS “Research & Data Analytics” business unit. Under the direction of the Executive Director, this position provides statistical support for funded research studies. It is the point person for the ongoing selection, assessment, and enhancement of underlying data repository technology platforms and data analytics tools. This role also includes the opportunity to expand and enhance CCS capabilities, usefulness, and viability by designing and developing new and proprietary products, such as a multi-agency data-sharing dashboard for community safety and crime prevention. Also, I was responsible for the day-to-day operations of our state-of-the-art “Community Research Action Classroom,” which includes, among other tasks, teaching and coordinating all Geographical Information System (GIS) classes and projects.

Assistant Research Professor 2003-2011

School of Social Work/Children and Family Research Center

University of Illinois, Urbana, Illinois

Provided data collection and analysis services, worked with faculty and research center staff to develop new proposals, assisted faculty and doctoral students with data analysis, and conducted research and analysis of administrative and survey data on children and families involved in Illinois’s child protection, income maintenance, health, and education systems and worked as a researcher to evaluate the Title IV-E Waiver to improve reunification and other family permanency and safety outcomes for foster children from drug-involved families. The Illinois AODA (Alcohol and Other Drugs Abuse) Waiver Demonstration has evaluated recovery coaches’ use to assist birth parents in obtaining needed AODA treatment services and negotiating permanency planning.

Research Scientist 2000-2003

Center for Prevention Research and Development

University of Illinois, Champaign, Illinois

Worked closely with local, state, and national agencies, community-based groups, schools/districts/Regional Offices of Education, non-profit organizations, health departments, and other public and private organizations to collect, analyze, and report prevention and educational attainment data. I worked with these organizations to improve program effectiveness and support public policy by improving state and community capacity for prevention, wellness, and instructional practices both within a school and after school.
